ABOUT THE PARADE

In the past, in Ireland, Saint Patrick's Day was celebrated as a religious holiday. It became a public holiday in 1903 when Irish MP James O'Mara introduced the law. It required pubs be closed on the holiday, a provision which was repealed only in the 1970's.

The first St. Patrick's Day Parade held in Ireland was in Dublin in 1931. Although secular celebrations now exist, the holiday remains a religious observance in Ireland, for both the Church of Ireland and Roman Catholic Church.

In the mid-1990's, the Irish government began a campaign to showcase Ireland and its culture on Saint Patrick's Day. The first Saint Patrick's festival was held as a one day event in 1996. Since then it has grown to a five-day event involving multiple events and activities with over a million people attending the festival and 675,000 people in attendance at the 2009 parade alone!

The annual St. Patrick's Festival is a thrilling and diverse series of events to celebrate Ireland's proud heritage. Street performances, pageantry, music and dance performances, literature, comedy, film, and family events are presented as part of this exciting festival.

The biggest and best St. Patrick's Day Parade in the world takes place on March 17, and is the festival's culminating event. It is a breathtaking display of creative talent. The spectacular procession meanders through the heart of Dublin City, mesmerising the audience along its 2.6km route.

For two hours you will participate in an awesome display of creative talent as the parade snakes its way through the city center. Irish marching bands join performers, dancers, street theatre companies, ceremonial groups, and marching bands from around the world, to create an exciting carnival atmosphere and a wonderfully entertaining parade. The parade is a piece of moving theatre, Colorful costumes, flamboyant performances and outstanding musical talent - that's the St. Patrick's Day Parade in Dublin.
